

Title of Artwork: Strides

Dimensions: Approximately 30 balls, varying in size from 4"w to 8"w

Medium: Blown glass, photo transfer, rubber, metal brackets

Statement:

Strides is composed of a series of glass globes, all of different sizes and tints of color. Each one contains photographs of Hanger Orthopedic Group's history, innovations, and successes. The photographs will be trapped within the globes, representing moments of time.

This body of globes begin with the founder, James Edward Hanger. As the cluster of globes move up, more and more appear on the wall. The glass globes will sweep across the wall, continuing past the windows where onlookers from below will be able to see them. Being slightly tinted with an array of amber coloring, not only will they be beautiful but they will refract light, create shadows on the wall, and engage the viewer.

"Moving Lives Forward" will be represented by the movement of the globes along with the achievements depicted within. They will be a beautiful time capsule of life that has happened but also illustrate what is possible and leave one wondering, "What is next?"
